ORIGINAL:

The Sharpless House was built during the nineteenth century in the Gothic Victorian style, and constructed of Serpentine stone which came from nearby quarries. The interior first floor was divided into four rooms flanking a large entrance hall. The first floor hall aws wainscoted to four feet, and the entire dining room was panelled. The northwest room was also panelled. The kitchen, laundry rooms, wine cellar and pantries were in the basement.

When the Biddles bought Edgewood, they remodelled it extensively. On the exterior they added the four story tower. They replaced the first floor casement windows with sash windows opening from the living room (north east side) onto the porch. The Biddles also made the rooms on the northeast side of the hall into a single large room. This was probably done after the tower was added, for at the time the living room was enlarged, the chimneys were removed from the southeast side of the house.

PRESENT: The present owners have made very few architectural changes in the house. The shutters, windows, and pent over the doorway are original. Much of the gingerbread has rotted away and not been replaced. The pendant on the eastern gable is gone, but there is still one on the south gable. In the nineteen fifties the Marshalls were forced to remove the parapet because it was in danger of falling. The kitchen is now located in the southeast room, first floor, instead of the basement. The elevator in the dining room was removed. Some of the interior carving on the dining room mantel was also removed, and the hall floor hall was replaced.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The exact date of the rural gothic Sharpless house is unknown, but the Chester County Historical Society has a picture taken in 1846 which shows the house surrounded by small trees. The picture is entitled "Property of Charles Sharpless". Deeds in Chester County Courthouse show that Charles L. Sharpless owned the property in 1852. Subsequently, it became the country seat of Philadelphian, Henry Pepper, Esq.

At his death in 1859, he left the property, then valued at $16,000, to his widow, Sally Norris Pepper. Mrs. Pepper sold the property in 1873 to Mrs. Mary D. Biddle, the widow of Colonel Henry J. Biddle. Mrs. Biddle was the founder of, and a major contributor to, the Dilworthtown Presbyterian Church. Upon Mrs. Biddle's death in 1900, Edgewood passed to her daughter, Miss Christine W. Biddle, for her life. In 1944, Christine's brother, Spencer, became the owner. In 1946 he transferred the property to John Marshall, from whom it passed to the present owners.

The house stands on a site which a major American force, under General Stirling, occupied during the Battle of Brandywine, 11 September, 1777.

The significance of Edgewood is that it is one of the earliest and most ornate statements of Victorian architecture in the Brandywine area. It is a complete break with the Quaker traditions which surround it.
